

Call for Winter/Spring 2011 Partnerships!

The Digital Literacy Project is looking for schools and community groups interested in creating new and exciting learning opportunities for their students, participants and volunteers!

Workshops are developed to match the specific needs and interests of your group. They can take place in the computer classroom at the Atwater Library and Computer Centre, at your organization's space, or in the community. The Digital Literacy Project provides facilitators whose experience and expertise match the needs of your group, as well as technical support, equipment and materials.

If you are interested in setting up a partnership, or would like to discuss possible projects, please don't hesitate to contact us!
